11.15am – 12.00pm	Panel Discussion 1: – Disruptive Technologies and the Acceleration of Business Transformation  The relentless parade of new technologies is unfolding on many fronts. Almost every advance is billed as a breakthrough, and the list of “next big things” grows ever longer. Not every emerging technology will alter the business or social landscape—but some truly do have the potential to disrupt the status quo, alter the way people live and work, and rearrange value pools. It is therefore critical that business and policy leaders understand which technologies will matter to them and prepare accordingly.  Technological and cultural change no longer evolves in a measured pace over several generations. The velocity of the rate of change is now exponentially greater than at any time in human history. The tools, paradigms, worldviews, and strategies that worked in past generations now no longer work, and we find ourselves adrift in a sea of dislocation and disruption. Volatility is the new normal  Moderator : Karamjit Singh, Co-Founder &amp; CEO Digital News Asia Panelists : Raj Ganesarajah, Director, Group Digital Banking, Consolsys Sdn. Afternoon Sessions
1.45pm – 2.30pm	Keynote 3: Advancing Your Operations: Taking It to The Next Level Continuous improvement is the discipline of identifying and implementing value added enhancements to services, processes, or the organization. A primary challenge facing organizations is to be able to adequately provide all existing services and still be agile and responsive to changing business needs What do we now recognize as being best practice and how can you push the boundaries in your Continuous Improvements approach? What additional value can be unlocked this way? Speaker: Nobuyuki Ota, Partner-APAC Valeocon Management Consulting
2.30pm – 3.15pm	Panel Discussion 2: Transforming from Low-Cost Centre to Value-Adding, Strategic Partner What is the role of the corporate support function? Until recently, the answer was relatively straightforward. Functions existed to carry out the many specialized tasks that every corporation needs done. Most functional roles were primarily transactional in nature; they fulfilling day-to-day needs, met legal and regulatory requirements, accommodated requests from every business unit, and put out the inevitable fires that erupted when there was a conflict or urgency. When functional leaders were asked to improve, that mean doing the same things more efficiently and at a greater cost savings. Over the past several years, however, CEOs, business unit leaders, and functional leaders themselves have been raising expectations. They have been asking questions: How can support functions play a more strategic role? How can they deliver more value to the organization at large? Moderator : Munirah Looi, CEO Brandt International  Panelists : David Burgess, Burgess Consulting Group  Nobuyuki Ota, Partner-APAC Valeocon Management Consulting  Kim Ho, CFO, South East Asia, Amway
3.15pm – 4.00pm	Panel Discussion 3: - Winning the War for Talent The biggest issue facing the industry is a war for talent, both against direct competitors, and other industries often seen as offering more attractive career prospects. Recruiting and retaining the best people is essential, but the competition is fierce, with many employees feeling less loyal to their employers. Companies must take steps to ensure that their key people are engaged and do not leave in search of better opportunities. Management needs to ensure their people have the tools and motivation to perform as required, developing the leaders of tomorrow to ensure sustainable success. The importance of effective change management continues, as companies revisit business models and strategies in the wake of the downturn. It's an ongoing process, and winning firms will continually review and develop the quality and skills of their workforce, enabling them to adapt as the marketplace changes. Moderator : Anthony Raja Devadoss, Deputy Chairman- Outsourcing Malaysia &amp; HR Committee &amp; Managing Director &amp; Business Head, BTI Consultants  Panelists : Chella Pandian, Human Resources Director, Merck Sharp &amp; Dohme (Malaysia) Sdn.
